GETTING STARTED

This kit includes a number of suggestions for games and activities that will make a fun event. You'll have to gauge the size and age range of your crowd to determine which of these activities will work best, and put the activities in any order you'd like. You might want to only do one or two of these, or do them all.

We'd like to ask that you please start the event by reading the following letter from Jeff Kinney to the group.

Hi, everyone!

Thank you so much for coming out for the "Cabin Fever" event! I wish I could be there with you in person.

I want to say thanks to each and every person here. You've made "Diary of a Wimpy Kid" a hit, and I want you to know how much I appreciate that.

I hope you like the new book! It was a lot of fun to write.

I've put together a few activities to help celebrate the launch of the book. I hope you have a good time!

Sincerely,
Jeff Kinney

The SECRET WORD Game

SETTING UP:

This game can be played in a group of eight players or fewer. If you have a large group, select random people from the audience to participate, and bring them to the front of the room. If you have a small group, everyone can play. First, cut out the cards on the next three pages. Then, divide the participants into two groups and hand out a stack of cards to each team.

HOW TO PLAY:

One team is selected to go first. A player from that team is designated as the first Reader. The Reader's job is to convey the "secret word" at the top of the card, and to get his or her fellow teammates to guess what the secret word is. The trick is that the Reader is not allowed to use the forbidden words printed on the card. The moderator must look over the Reader's shoulder to make sure he or she doesn't say any of the forbidden words. If the Reader says a forbidden word, they lose a point and must move on to the next card. The Reader has one minute to convey as many secret words as possible. Once the minute expires, the Reader's score is tallied, and the points go to the Reader's team. Then the card stack is passed on to the next team, and that team gets a turn. A new Reader is picked every time a team has a new turn. The game ends once everyone has had a chance to go or once the cards run out.

If this game is played in front of a large group, it would be best for the moderator to write the secret word on an easel that everyone in the audience can see, so as to make it more fun for non-playing participants.

The “WIMPY KID” Expert Game

HOW TO PLAY:

A person from the audience who claims to know everything about the Wimpy Kid books is picked to come to the front of the room. They will face off against the crowd in a trivia game, which will prove whether or not the “expert” is indeed the most knowledgeable fan in the audience.

Everyone in the audience who wants to participate will stand up. Everyone else will remain seated. The audience and expert will be asked a series of true/false questions from the list on the next page. If the players in the audience think the answer to a given question is true, they will place a coin in their right hand and close it. If they think the answer to the question is false, their right hand will be empty.

The expert reveals his or her answer. At the count of three, everyone will open their right hand, revealing their answer. If the expert is incorrect, he or she will be eliminated from the game, and a new expert, drawn from the audience who is still standing, will be invited to the front of the room.

All players in the audience who answer incorrectly are out of the game, and they have to sit down. If the expert is correct, he or she will keep playing. If the expert outlasts everyone in the audience, he or she wins the game.
